

THE STOCKBURY & SOUTH GREEN OBSERVER

August 2020

Future of The Stockbury Observer

As some of you will know, The Observer has been printed for us by a fantastic firm, Denmaur Paper Media, for some years. The owner of the company is a former resident of the Parish and subsidised the costs of printing. We did not realise just how large a discount we were getting until the recent Covid19 outbreak when many companies reviewed their costs as markets declined.

A couple of months ago, the Parish Council found out what the cost of producing free hard copies of The Observer really is. Even if it is produced at cost price, printing 350 copies every month was costing the Denmaur thousands of pounds a year, whilst Stockbury was paying a few hundred; even without the economic problems brought about by the pandemic, expecting a company to subsidise the cost to that extent is unacceptable. Something had to happen.

As a Parish Council, we have looked at what the implications of paying the full cost would be and, as you might expect, have shopped around to see whether we can find a company which could print The Observer more cheaply. Unfortunately none could and the Parish does not have the funds to pay a commercial rate.

Short of finding a philanthropist willing to contribute over £4,000 a year, it looked for a while as if The Observer would have to move online and paper copies would become a thing of the past. Indeed, after this edition there may be a month or two when that is what happens, but we have some useful friends, a really committed editor and a cunning plan

We are looking to buy a printer which can cope with the volume and Fiona has kindly offered to do the printing collating, stapling etc (ably assisted by Geoff of course!). To help us out with the capital cost, our Kent County Councillor, Shellina Prendergast, has offered to donate some of her discretionary budget. With good luck and a following wind, we should be up and running again within a couple of months.

P.S. If anyone happens to own a business that supplies printers or can wangle a discount, we would love to hear from you!

Stockbury Covid-19 Support Group

At last we seem to be heading towards a more normal way of life with more shops and pubs gingerly opening their doors.

It has been noticeable that the support group of volunteers has been less needed as more people have felt able to return to getting their own shopping and prescriptions. Nonetheless, the group has made more than 200 deliveries of groceries and medicines from Rochester in the north to Hollingbourne in the south and east – west from Bapchild to Aylesford, an area of some 77 square miles. This averages 50 generous acts per month since the lockdown began and we have not quite finished yet.

If all goes to plan, we will stand down from the 1st August by which time it is anticipated that those who have been shielded will be able to venture out for themselves. However, we stand ready to spring back into action should there be another wave of coronavirus later in the year.

We are deeply grateful to our volunteers who have bravely gone about the business of bringing much needed supplies to the elderly, the sick and to key workers just needing a helping hand.

Summertime

August starts the summer holiday
When families pack their bags to get away
And school teachers say 'hip hip hooray
No more school children for many a day'
When young, the days seem so very long
But marvel at how fast the weeks have gone
They dread having to remember
Schools starts again in September!

Historical Research Group of Sittingbourne WW2 Memorials Project

Following the work that the Historical Research Group of Sittingbourne has carried out in the last few years telling the stories of the casualties of WW1, we have now turned our attention to WW2. We plan to investigate all those commemorated on the Swale memorials and with links to the area, in order to recognise the ultimate sacrifice made by the people from Sittingbourne and its surrounding parishes during the Second World War, 1939-1945.

I shall be researching the names of the men on the memorial at St Mary Magdalene Church, Stockbury, as well as the Australian pilot who died in Squirrel Wood after being shot down in 1944. We have been going through the wartime editions of the East Kent Gazette which have revealed some valuable background information. I am interested in any of the activities that took place in the area during the war, however trivial they may seem.

Can you help? If you have a story to tell, have some photographs, or have done some research on a family member I would be delighted to hear from you.

Please contact me at jweeks@blueyonder.co.uk or on 07803 402656.

St Mary Magdalene, Stockbury

There has been a church in Stockbury since Saxon times and it is fair to say that it has had its fair share of ups and downs. At present it is closed due to Coronavirus.

Last year a great deal of work was done on the fabric of the church itself. Unfortunately excellent though this work seems to be, its aftermath has added to the poor state of the churchyard itself. This rather lovely church which is surrounded by the graves of many Stockbury family members desperately needs a facelift for its setting.

The south boundary wall is crumbling due to ivy overgrowth, the wall between old and new burial grounds has partially fallen. There are weed trees among the graves and many of the graves themselves are overgrown.

Reverend Amanda Lane is keen that any work respects the surroundings, wildlife and the rural nature of the site. The charity GodsAcre will give advice and support and I have offered to help. My aim is to organise a working party which could spend a few hours carefully removing the ivy on the south boundary (without the wall falling down!) and dealing with the weed trees which dot the site. If we have enough people and sufficient enthusiasm to do more, I will develop a plan and also carry out an eco-survey over the next year in order to establish what needs to be preserved and or enhanced.

Stockbury Village Hall

Good News!

Your committee has met and decided that from September it will be possible to re-open the hall to those who wish to use it. There will be some conditions to be met, but these are easy to follow and should be achievable for most hirers.

More Good News!!

- Our status as a business rated organisation with Maidstone Borough Council (MBC) meant that we could apply for a £10,000 grant which, we are pleased to report, was granted. This will certainly help to fill the gap left by lack of income and used for any repairs that might be needed in the future.
- When we do reopen, you will see some significant changes that have really improved your hall and these were carried out by people from our parish who all deserve a huge thank you from all of us. The improvements being :-
 - a. The 2 magnificent tubs of flowers outside the front door were planted by Keith Rich who ensures that they are watered regularly. Many thanks Keith
 - b. The stage floor covering has been replaced and the walls and ceiling painted black – a vast improvement and many thanks to Brian and Liz Lee
 - c. The wooden floor in the hall was in dire need of sanding and resealing and now looks like new. This took far longer than was imagined and many thanks to Dave Canham

We hope to see you soon and for more details, please contact: -

In 2017 many of the benches on the playing field behind the Village Hall were replaced with new ones and people were offered the opportunity to sponsor a bench in memory of someone, or as a tribute, in return for a contribution to its cost. Stockbury Book Club

Due to the hiatus of The Observer, we have 3 books reports to bring you - Ed

May Meeting

Stockbury Book Club held its second and very successful virtual meeting in order to discuss this months book "The Things They Carried" by Tim O'Brien. Described as a "... definitive account of what it was like being on the ground in Vietnam." but also as "... a work of fiction. Except for a few details regarding the author's own life..."

Initially there seemed to be a general consensus that as readers started the book they were unsure if they would finish it but that on further examination all became more engaged. A couple of members of the group felt that they needed to digest it in bite size pieces and found some resonance with the odd state we currently find ourselves in.

There was a common theme in the interpretation of the book that although stated to be a work of fiction it definitely didn't feel like it. Comments included:

- "The book leaves you in no doubt how war leads to the depths of human suffering, the brutalisation of men and underlines the futility of conflict."
- "Was it fact or was it fiction - it didn't matter - it all seemed real!"
- "I know the author said it was part fiction and part autobiography but I read it as an autobiography. How could you make up some of those terrible events"
- "His ability and/or capacity to evoke the vividness of what he had experienced and the enduring nature of how long these experiences had stayed with him, really resonated with me."

The book is written in chapter form with each chapter being a different recollection or event some of which relate to others, some not and told at differing times in the authors life. It included accounts of lives post conflict and the difficulties experienced in returning to some sort of normal.

There were discussions about the broader impact of the book which was described as quite bleak in places but was felt to be necessarily so due to the material. Other statements were:

- "It wasn't war story, a factual account, a post conflict political and social impact analysis, a personal memoir. It was all of these and more rolled into one told in an engaging, informative, thought provoking and readable way."
- "I was fascinated by the list of what the soldiers took with them. It made me think what is the thing that always goes with you?"
- "We will not forget this book in a hurry."

All agreed that they were glad they had read the book and it had quite an impact on everyone; 5 of our members scored it a 9 with the other scores giving an overall mark of 8.5.

June Meeting

The Corner Shop in Cockleberry Bay by Nicola May

Rosa Larkin inherits a derelict corner shop in a sleepy Devon village. At the time she is down on her luck, so with selling the property on her mind she decides to accept the legacy. However the anonymous benefactor has stipulated this little shop may only be passed on to someone who deserves it and is not to be sold. Regardless of this, Rosa travels to Devon leaving the comparative security of the flat share in London and her friend Josh. Having sampled the village life where everyone knows everyone's business she decides to try her hand at being a shop owner, setting up a pet friendly business; along the way there are many twists and turns of the plot and relationships.

Generally the club agreed this was no great literary work but it would appear the lockdown had influenced a number of us on the level of appreciation of this light-hearted predictable story. There was a sense that this easy read took one's mind off the pandemic and its restrictions.

However there was criticism of the simple, juvenile and sometimes crude style of writing. The sexual morals of the main character were questionable and maybe not to everyone's taste. This was juxtapositioned with the feel good rather predictable plot, although the minor characters relationships with each other were somewhat surprising. Whilst the storyline is comparatively complex, the characters are certainly not.

You can see where this is heading! Scoring was all over the place ... a lot of halves appeared but the average came out at 5/10 and a few members said they might be tempted to read the sequel.

Broadbands. We have become used to faces disappearing and re appearing and sometimes talking to blank spaces on the screen where someone's face should be. In a perverse kind of way – it does seem to concentrate the mind and make our meetings more focused. It is usually a case of making sure everyone has had a chance to say what they want to, before their face disappears for a few minutes.

Despite all this we continue regardless and this month reviewed our reading of Michelle Obama's autobiography entitled Becoming. Lots of people know she was the first lady of colour to occupy the White House and some know she had qualified as a Lawyer but I for one knew very little about her early life in Chicago and for that matter the early years of her marriage to Barrack, before they entered the White House.

I found this book quite absorbing and easy to read, but as ever we did not all share that opinion. Nearly everyone found it interesting – if sometimes a bit slick. One comment being that she “seemed to succeed at everything she did”. To counter that another view was that she was very driven and portrayed very well, the impact Barrack had had on her life. Another member felt she had left a legacy in terms of what she had achieved in the White House and how successfully she developed the role of First Lady. I for one found her impressive!

We gave it a score of 8.5

Stockbury Gardeners

As this is the last issue of a “paper ” Gardeners report I have included a few photographs of the years gardening to use up the last of the printers colour inks up! As you are by now aware that we are sadly to replace The Observer with a digital online version, it's a shame but they say its progress.

I can cite a similar example, when a well known water company from the south east but shall remain nameless, who put all of the engineering plans and records onto microfiche, hence an annual saving of x pounds for the shareholders. Then the next move was to smaller premises and guess what ... yes, the records were lost.

I really hope that does not happen, I rather like the village and its history, without paper we could all lose our heritage, especially if we put our faith and trust in one Chinese telecom company. Of course these are my views and you do not have to repeat them.

(Chris, you could always be the mysterious benefactor who bank rolls us. No? - Ed)

So where were we ? Ah yes, gardening. We have had plenty of time with all of the CV-19 going on and lockdown. If you are lucky enough to have a garden or allotment you are lucky, I for one have made the best during lockdown to tend the garden. My wife also, she has a magnificent show of flowers where she could, if allowed legally, to exhibit at the County Show and other competitions. Sadly all these are all cancelled, a case of all dressed up and nowhere to go!

The Gardeners have been staying away from the Village Hall, as it is quite rightly closed and no society shows as a result. We DO however have an opportunity to gather in our Chairman's garden on the 6th August for a social distancing BBQ; we, I believe, are allowed up to 30 people at a single gathering. As such we normally gather around 25 members at a normal hall meeting, so we could be doing something legal! Rather seriously though, it will be members only and well policed. You need to advise the secretary if you are able to make it.

The pictures show a previous years gooseberry entry into the Kent Show, some red onions ready to slice and put into a salad ... 😊 and I found that someone had left a mug in my polytunnel last week.

Patrik Says

Dear Residents,

While we are hopefully all enjoying our summer, albeit possibly not as expected, I presume that we are getting used to the 'new normal'.

For local authorities, this 'new normal' equates to staring into a financial abyss. There is already talk about a substantial hike in council tax next year and/or a substantial cut in services – not only in Maidstone I hasten to add.

Looking back over the past months, I am glad that my Ward in the North Downs grabbed what they could, when we could. No, I'm not talking about toilet paper! Days before funding was stopped, I managed to throw my whole annual member's grant at a local Covid self-help group in our ward and I am happy to have done my bit for at least two village halls, who each got a £10,000 Covid-business rates rebate, paid for by central government. Not all is bad in a crisis and a big thank you to Simon in Wormshill)

It is not very often that rural communities get their fair share in return for their taxes, so I am quite happy to have succeeded on my main election promise, which I gave you, four years ago.

The 'new normal' for me means a lot of online meetings, committees and even Full Council. I cannot help reiterating that online is no substitute for face to face meetings. Democracy needs to be seen to be done. Some councillors certainly do not help to enhance public confidence by having or preparing their dinner during important meetings ...

One theme, which keeps recurring, is the democratic accountability of elected councillors. Across the political spectrum, there is a fair amount of discontent and endless debates whether members should be permitted to see confidential papers or be permitted to sit on certain committee meetings or even be allowed to attend as visiting members. In principle, Maidstone's committee system should allow individual members more access and influence than under a cabinet system. In reality, however, a lot of power lies with officers whose interpretation of the rules is not always without critique, to put it politely. This situation is not new to online, we've been here long before but recent events certainly emphasise the need for reform.

Long-standing readers of this column may remember that MBC used to have a Planning Referrals Committee, whose task it was to review Planning Committee decisions, which, in the view of officers, may lead to costly appeals. Last time when this committee sat, almost three years ago, it caused so much of a stir that this committee of three members was abolished, in favour of a 15-member special meeting by the Policy & Resources Committee. P&R is the committee which holds the council's purse strings. Other councils don't have such referrals committee, MBC does.

On Monday 20th I was member of such a special meeting, the first of its kind since the change of our constitution. Three times prior, the Planning Committee refused permission for a major housing development in Church Road, Otham. And although for the fourth time this application was refused, I cannot help reading the papers as: 'we don't like the way you voted, please do it again ...'

Consultations

August, you may remember, is the time when I task you to have a look at current consultations. Close to my heart is the The Kent Downs AONB Management Plan 2020-2025. I am MBC's elected representative on the Joint Advisory Committee of Kent Councils, where we reviewed the strategy for conserving and enhancing the Kent Downs Area of Natural Beauty (AONB). The Draft Plan is now available for public consultation giving you the chance to have your say before it is finalised, published and implemented. Your views will help us to conserve the landscape for future generations while ensuring that today's residents and visitors can all benefit from connection with the natural environment in an amazing landscape.

https://kccconsultations.inconsult.uk/consult/ti/kentdowns_aonb/consultationHome

Maidstone Borough Council (MBC), is inviting residents, businesses and stakeholders to have their say on the proposed new look Town Centre Bus Station. The Council has launched a consultation on the bus station refurbishment. Everyone who uses the bus station can tell us what they think about the proposal to improve it. The consultation will continue until 16th September 2020.

Full details of the proposed plan can be found on the Council website, <https://www.maidstone.gov.uk/home/primary-services/council-and-democracy/additional-areas/have-your-say/tier-3-primary-areas/current-consultations>

Via the same link you can find two more current consultations:

- Town Centre Public Spaces Protection Order Consultation about measures to reduce anti-social behaviour in the town centre, closing 7th August
- Local Plan Review – Scoping, Themes and Issues Public Consultation (Regulation 18) is asking for your views on the matters which the Local Plan Review should cover. Close at 5pm on Monday 30 September.

And before you get overwhelmed with these papers:

The Maidstone Leisure Centre has just reopened its doors. the gym, workout classes and lane swimming are open, while all other facilities will remain closed, including changing rooms, showers and lockers.

And finally:

Maidstone Borough Council's home website maidstone.gov.uk has jumped up 137 places in the latest league table of council websites for accessibility and currently sits in 1st place.

Letters to The Editor

For anyone who uses our community park ...

Can I respectfully ask that owners of dogs who use the Stockbury park to not put your dog waste into the green domestic waste bins. Although thankfully you are responsible enough to pick it up, the correct bin for this waste is situated at the side of the village hall as you enter and leave the park.

Last week I emptied 2 bins full to the brim with dog waste, the one by the playground also had some in it. Maidstone Council do not empty these bins, it's up to the residence to to work together to make sure our park is kept safe and tidy, the dog waste can create quite a smell when left in the sun and is unsafe around children's playgrounds.

After making some signs for each bin, I have found that people are still using one bin the same way and everyday since, the same eco friendly green bags, yellow bags and black bags are being dumped.

Thank you for your co-operation.

We would like to take the opportunity to say 'thank you' to our family, friends and neighbours for their support during the difficult and strange Covid-19 times we are all living through.

We have been overwhelmed by your kindness, generosity and support during this time.

We hope you are all keeping safe and well and look forward to better times ahead.

Wendy and Rodney Gibson

Stockbury & Hartlip CC

Well at long last the cricket season has started and we have in fact had two matches, both at home and governed by strict Covid-19 rules.

Everyone must turn up fully changed into their whites with their own packed tea and drink and personal hand sanitiser. Social distancing must be observed on the pitch and the ball is sanitised every 6 overs as are the fielders and umpires hands so we all feel safe.

Due to my accident (I fractured my thigh bone) the pitch had not received its usual loving care and was in a terrible state, however Paul, Oscar and Enrique pitched in and we did manage with a great deal of effort to produce a pretty good playing surface.

Hartley CC. let us down on Thursday so we had to arrange an emergency fixture and managed to obtain game with Chelsfield Village CC early on Saturday. Imagine our surprise when their team was comprised of only Pakistani players of varying ages. It transpired that they all live in either Orpington or Sidcup and are hoping to eventually produce a side comprising of members of only two families but meanwhile are keeping Chelsfield Sunday side alive. If only we could engender the same enthusiasm in our villages.

The game however followed its usual course with Chelsfield batting first and reaching 219 all out (the first time we have bowled a side out). Wickets were shared by Ted Ratcliffe 4 for 44, Andy Murphy 3 for 27, Daniel Higgins 1 for 45 and Andrew Mowatt 1 for 46 and 1 run out.

Our batting was unfortunately still in its usual groove with only John Brignall reaching a good score of 34 having been dropped a number of times. Andrew Mowatt, 24, Ted, 14, Oscar, 10 and Andy, 14 were the only other players to worry the scorers. So you could say we were soundly beaten but yet again our opposition enjoyed the relaxed atmosphere of the game and expressed a desire for another fixture.

Our second game was at Home against the Kent LAPD team who had even more trouble than us in fielding a team. However, it did not matter in the end as the persistent drizzle eventually convinced everyone that it was too wet and dangerous to continue. Our two drowned rats of openers would have liked to continue as they were both doing well against some indifferent bowling with Oscar on 40 but in the end good sense prevailed.

So yet again we are working feverishly to get the rest of the square in playable condition but lack of rain is not helping. We also have excellent net facilities which are available for anyone in the village who wants to come along and hone their skills; they can use them at any time apart from match days and if you would like to face our bowling machine just ring and let me know.

As you all know by now we are always looking for new players of any ability so if you would like to give cricket a try please contact me.)

STOCKBURY COMMUNITY BUS

When the country began its lockdown in March, we of course had to suspend the use of our very own community bus but it has not lain totally idle. You may have seen it travelling around taking deliveries to those in need. We are now exploring the ways in which it will be possible to restart our regular use with passengers.

The Stockbury Gundog Society is hiring it at the end of July to test out our 'Covid-secure' measures and hopefully all will be well. Using the guidance from government and the Community Transport Association, we feel that we can limit the number of passengers to ensure the '1-metre plus' recommendations. The plus bit refers to the additional measures of disinfecting the bus before and after use, the wearing of face masks and social distancing while waiting and getting on and off the bus. The guidance also recommends not too much talking and no singing. Not sure how our regulars will view this last one!

We are also contacting all our 'members' to check the use and accuracy of our database following the introduction of the new General Data Protection Regulations (GDPR). Perhaps you do not remember signing up in 2010 to support the Parish in getting a bus for Stockbury but we do! Every household on our list will receive a letter, with the details we hold, asking whether you wish to remain in the 'supporters' club' and whether the details have changed. We have tried to reflect changes we know about if people have moved away or sadly died since 2010 and we can only apologise if our letter causes any inconvenience or upset. However, it is now unlawful to hold information without permission and so we have to ask.

We are also taking the opportunity to ask your opinions too. How can we make even more use of our wonderful and economical transport? What would it take to peel you out of your car occasionally and go a bit greener?

Anyone with 'D1' on their licence can drive the bus and it is easy to do so. If you are 75 or under, why not give it a go? Younger people without the D1 endorsement can drive with an appropriate qualification like a MIDAS certificate. The MIDAS training is easy and we can pay for you to do it.

So, let's make post-covid the age of volunteering, going green and enjoying ourselves.
